

ALAN DUNTON

PhD

Alan Dunton is a lecturer in the Coaching Science & Skill Acquisition at Munster Technological University, Cork. Having completed a PhD in the area of Skill Acquisition, Alan continues to engage in the domain from a research perspective with the HEx-Spo research group. Outside of his role in academia, he has worked with athletes, coaches, and sports organisations for over a decade in both professional and developmental environments.

He currently engages with coaches and organisations in a skill acquisition consultancy capacity, advising on the implementation of skill acquisition principles and practices that enhance the transfer of training to the competition environment.